120 Years of Chamber Spirit

The Yuma County Chamber of Commerce was officially founded in 1905 to represent the interests of local business owners. For the first fifteen years of its existence, it was known as the Yuma Commercial Club. The Chamber was instrumental in not only putting Yuma on the map by advertising and boosting the advantages of the Yuma area to potential visitors but was strategic in marketing to Washington DC and decision makers in advance of upcoming projects.

When the Laguna Dam was completed in March 1909, it held a three-day celebration with many strangers from far away cities and points present. For the next three years, the community waited for the building of the canals and construction of the siphon. When the siphon was completed in April 1912, another big celebration was held.

The Chamber headquarters and exhibit room was located in the Ming Hotel building on Third Street. The exhibit room was filled with choice agricultural and citricultural and milling products of Yuma County and attracted many visitors and 'home folks'.

The construction of the highway bridge across the Colorado river at Yuma took six years to accomplish this work. The construction of the in road construction. The first bond issue of half a million dollars was voted on 1914 and the first paved road, the road to Somerton, was constructed in 1914. Later, a bond issue for $1,200,000 was voted at the request of the Chamber and the county road system was greatly extended.

The paved highway from Yuma to Phoenix was a piece of work upon which the Chamber of Commerce worked on for many years and the paved road from the Colorado River to San Diego and Los Angeles was largely the work of the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce. The paved road through the Imperial Sand Dunes never would have been built but for the continuous work of the chamber. It took many years and much hard work to accomplish the building of these roads.

In 1925 Fly Field was created, the first airport in the city of Yuma. Its promotion and completion were tirelessly worked for by the Chamber over a period of years.

The development of the Yuma Mesa and particularly of the Unit 33 of the Yuma Mesa Auxiliary Project began in the Chamber of Commerce. The vision was of development of the highway bridge across the Gila River at Antelope Hill and later the highway bridge across the Gila three miles down the river from Dome were monumental undertakings.

The Chamber was heavily involved

Yuma Mesa as a great citrus district and beautiful homes and fine groves of citrus and other semi-tropical fruits.

In 1954 the Chamber played a major role in convincing the Baltimore Orioles to hold their spring training in Yuma.

Other projects the Chamber were involved in included developing a convention center and building a desalinization plant.

The list of the Chamber activities may be extended indefinitely. It was and still is, a live, active, vigorous, and energetic organization that stands behind every move to advance the material interest of Yuma and its tributary territory. The doors are always open and it's work never ceases.

Compiled from news articles published in the Yuma Sun and the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce Collection.

Did You Know?

The Caballeros de Yuma, Visit Yuma and Greater Yuma Economic Development Corp. trace their roots back to the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce.

GYEDC started as an Industrial Development Committee of the Chamber and later evolved into what it is today.

The Caballeros de Yuma, established in 1962 by local businessmen, initially operated under the Chamber's umbrella to promote tourism and community events.

Similarly, Visit Yuma, Yuma's official tourism bureau, began as a Chamber initiative before becoming an independent organization dedicated to marketing Yuma as a travel destination.

These evolutions highlight the Chamber's pivotal role in fostering organizations that enhance Yuma's economic growth and community engagement.

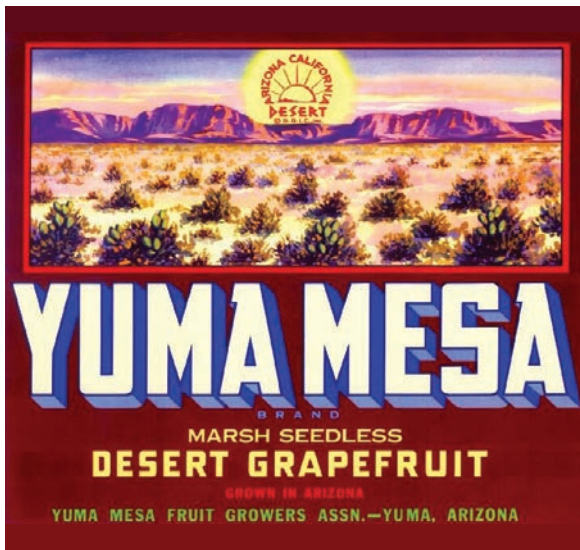

A Chamber Promotion from the Yuma Daily Sun Archives: May 24, 1939

Some months ago, the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce and the Yuma Mesa Fruit Growers association started cooperation on advertising Yuma products by giving away a grapefruit to each person entering the state here by automobile.

That project has been talked of in every corner of the United States; much favorable publicity has come to Yuma because of it.

An article in the Sunkist Courier appeared "An instance of the promotion works now being done in that state (Arizona) regularly is the cooperative effort of the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce with the Yuma Mesa Fruit Growers Association [and employees at the inspection station].

The association is furnishing delicious large grapefruit to each passenger in a car coming into Arizona. The Chamber has had printed and gives out with the grapefruit, a card reading in part:

"Howdy Folks, and Welcome to Yuma. This Yuma-grown grapefruit was handed to you thru the courtesy of the Yuma Mesa Fruit Growers. We think you will like it"

History of Yuma

Spanish expeditions led by Hernando de Alarcon and Melchior Diaz arrive in Yuma in 1540 by sea from the Gulf of California, noting the natural crossing of the Colorado River as a potential site for settlement. The explorers find members of two tribes, the Cocopah and the Quechan, living and growing crops along the river banks. The explorers called the Indians the Yumas, from the Spanish word for smoke (humo), because cooking fire smoke filled the valley as the Spaniards viewed the Crossing from "Indian Hill."

In 1687, Father Eusebio Kino arrives in Sonora to establish missions and convert the Indians. His expeditions throughout Arizona, New Mexico and California mapped an area 200 miles long and 250 miles wide, including what is now Yuma County.

In 1774, Juan Bautista de Anza, captain of the Presidio of Tubac (near present-day Tucson), arrives in Yuma in January, seeking an overland route from Sonora to northern California on behalf of the Viceroy of New Spain.

History of Yuma

In 1849, more than 60,000 travelers en route to the California gold rush passed through Yuma, crossing the Colorado using a rope ferry that ran from the riverbank at the end of the Gila Trail (now Main Street).

In 1852 Fort Yuma was established by U.S. Army and two years later the Gadsden Purchase is ratified and Yuma (Colorado City) and lands south of Gila River and west of Rio Grande become part of United States territory. In 1862, Colorado City is washed away by flooding on the Colorado River and the rebuilt town is renamed Arizona City.

From 1864-1883, thousands of tons of Army supplies were offloaded from ships steaming up the Colorado River from the Gulf of California. These supplies were then staged out of the Quartermaster Depot and transported by 20-mule teams to forts and Army installations throughout the Southwest.

In 1873 Arizona City was renamed Yuma and in 1876, the Arizona Territorial Prison was built. The prison remained in operation until 1909 when its prisoners were relocated to Florence. From 1910 to 1914, Yuma High School moves into the Territorial Prison. Classes were held in cell blocks. Thus, the mascot name of Yuma Criminals was born.

In 1905, construction began on the Laguna Dam, which will become the first dam on Colorado River. The Laguna Dam was completed in 1909. The Yuma Project was a revolutionary agricultural development initiated by the United States Reclamation Service. An irrigation system was developed to carry the waters of the Colorado River to prime desert land, allowing Yuma farmers to produce a wide variety of produce on a large commercial scale. Irrigation water for the Yuma Project was supplied by means of a canal system originating at the Laguna Dam.

On Valentine's Day in 1912, Arizona became the 48th state of the union and construction of Yuma Siphon, which moves irrigation water from California to Arizona through a tunnel dug underneath the Colorado River, is completed. The tunnel, a 14-foot diameter concrete tube built in the sandstone 50 feet below the river bed, stretches 955 feet between a vertical shaft 76 feet deep on the California side and an exit shaft 74 feet deep on the Arizona side.

City of Yuma was chartered as a city under the laws of the new state of Arizona state on April 7, 1914.

The first highway crossing of Colorado River via Ocean-To-Ocean Bridge occurred in 1915, driving the ferry out of business.

In 1916, a flood poured down the Gila River into the Colorado; waters sweep into Yuma, destroying many downtown buildings.

The federal government leased 640 acres from Yuma County in 1928 to establish Fly Field at site of present-day Marine Corps Air Station Yuma. In 1943, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers opened Yuma Test Branch near present-day site of Yuma Proving Ground to test bridging equipment.

Medjool dates were introduced into Bard Valley in 1944. Yuma had established a reputation for its agricultural benefits, and the growing of date palms soon became a very lucrative and fast-growing industry.

As a publicity stunt, in 1949, to spotlight Yuma's perfect flying weather, the Jaycees staged a record-setting endurance flight. The "City of Yuma," an Aeronca Sedan, flew nonstop for nearly 47 days - from August 24 to October 10, 1949. The plane's record-setting 1,124 hours aloft were made possible by volunteers who passed food and fuel to pilots Woody Jongeward and Bob Woodhouse from a Buick convertible as it sped along the runway, with the plane flying just above it. The plane now hangs in Yuma City Hall.

In 1963, Arizona Western College was established and in 1964, the Cibola National Wildlife Refuge was established.

In 2012, Yuma celebrated its 100th birthday and in 2014, Yuma celebrated its 100th anniversary of its charter as a city under the laws of the state of Arizona.

Quality of Life

If you love blue skies and sunshine, Yuma is the place to be.

In fact, the city holds the Guinness World Record as the sunniest place on earth, with clear skies prevailing a mean of 4,055 hours of a possible 4,456 hours every year, or 91 percent of the time.

Yuma County residents enjoy a temperate climate for most of the year, a good education system that includes both a community college and branches of state universities, year-round entertainment and recreational opportunities and lots of options for affordable shopping.

And they can enjoy all those attributes at a pace considerably slower than the hustle and bustle of larger cities.

Yuma is centrally located by the Colorado River and several lakes, any one of which afford a pleasurable day of boating, fishing, swimming or water skiing.

In fact, the river is a draw for tourists, with many of the thousands of boaters and other water enthusiasts who gather at the river or upstream at Martinez Lake coming from San Diego and other parts of California.

The lakes and the river's beaches offer a pleasant break from summer temperatures. And while triple digits are typical during the months of June through September, residents find the heat to be a small price to pay for the milder climate that follows.

Highs drop into the 90s by October and continue falling to the 70s in the winter – still short-sleeve weather by many standards.

But no matter the season, sunny skies prevail in Yuma County.

It's no coincidence that for up to three-quarters of the year, from about October to May, Yuma draws tens of thousands of winter visitors who otherwise might be shoveling snow or contending with rain in their homes in the north, including a large percentage of Canadians.

Not counting the thousands of winter residents, Yuma County's year-round population is estimated to be 217,568, according to 2024 estimates by the U.S. Census Bureau.

Even as it grows, the Yuma area retains the small-town charms that attracted so many people in the first place. Commutes tend to be short, and people who live in the Foothills, Wellton and other outlying areas don't face bumper-to-bumper gridlock on highways if they happen to commute between home and jobs in Yuma, the hub of the county.

According to the Census Bureau, the city of Yuma accounts for nearly half of the county's total population, with an estimated 101,964 people living within the Yuma city limits in 2024.

The cities of San Luis and Somerton have experienced tremendous growth. San Luis went from 15,322 residents counted in the 2000 census to an estimated 37,966 in 2024, while Somerton's population has grown from 7,266 in 2000 to an estimated 14,594, according to Census Bureau estimates.

The Census Bureau also estimates that the 65+ age group has increased by over 37% between 2010 and 2022.

Depending on where in the county they live, residents' children are served by one of seven elementary school districts and two high school districts. But for those parents who want other options for their kids, numerous charter, parochial and private schools have been established throughout the area at both the elementary and secondary levels.

State Farm Serving The Yuma County Community

Quality of Life

Arizona Western College serves local residents and even international students seeking to continue their education. Today, it offers associate degrees and certificates in about 170 academic programs at its main campus in Yuma, plus satellite campuses in San Luis, Ariz., Somerton, Wellton and Marine Corps Air Station Yuma.

Having earned their associate degrees, AWC graduates can continue their studies toward bachelor or master degrees at the Northern Arizona University-Yuma branch, which shares the AWC campus under an arrangement that dates to the late 1980s and in partnerships with partnerships the University of Arizona, and Arizona State University.

Through their parks and recreation departments and schools, Yuma offers a variety of arts and performing arts exhibitions. Across the county, numerous independent arts, crafts and cultural groups also offer memberships and entertainment, such as Yuma Community Theater, Yuma Orchestra and Yuma Fine Arts Association.

The communities in Yuma County have athletic and recreational programs through their parks and recreation departments. They also have parks, pools and other athletic facilities where walkers, joggers, golfers, swimmers, softball and soccer players and others can pursue their pastimes.

Yuma County is a destination for anglers, boaters and water skiers, as well as hunters, bicyclists, desert hikers, campers and off-roading enthusiasts.

The county is nationally famous for its dove hunting, and the first two weeks of each September hunters not only from Yuma but also from California and around Arizona and more far-flung areas gather in the fields to try to bag their limits of mourning and white-winged doves.

Hunters also stalk desert big-horn sheep in the Kofa National Wildlife Refuge. That area and others around the county also provide habitat for mule deer that is also a popular quarry.

The Kofas are among a number of popular destinations for campers.

Meanwhile, thousands of off-roading enthusiasts ride their all-terrain vehicles to the Imperial Sand Dunes in neighboring California in the winter.

The range of goods and services conveniently available to residents has broadened in recent years as more businesses locate there to serve the growing population of Yuma County.

With all that is available locally, residents have more reasons than ever before to stay home to shop and play.

Somerton

Somerton is more than 100 years old, having celebrated its centennial in 2018.

Somerton is located in the heart of the fertile Yuma Valley and about 10 miles southwest of Yuma. Equidistant from the borders of California and Mexico, Somerton is also the native region of the Cocopah Tribe.

According to 2024 Census estimates, Somerton has a little more than 14,000 residents.

Though Somerton is heavily dependent on agriculture, its economy is becoming more diversified, with not only small businesses but light industry becoming more important.

Major employers within the city include the Somerton Elementary School District, city of Somerton, Regional Center for Border Health, Sunset Community Health Center, Del Sol Market, as well as the Arizona Department of Economic Security call center.

Another large employer is the Cocopah Tribe, which has seven different entertainment, lodging and cultural attractions, including Cocopah Casino, Cocopah Resort & Conference Center, Cocopah Museum, Cocopah RV and Golf Resort, and the Wild River Family Entertainment Center.

The Somerton Elementary School District consists of seven campuses and Somerton High School.

Somerton also has a charter high school, the Jose Yopez Learning Center, operated by Tucson-based Portable Practical Educational Preparation Inc.

Somerton is home to the Somerton Tamale Festival, an event in December that brings together tens of thousands of people to enjoy a staple of traditional Mexican cuisine. The event is hosted by the El Diablito Arizona State University Alumni Chapter to raise scholarship money for area students who will attend ASU.

But that's not the only popular celebration in Somerton. The city hosts a 4th of July celebration attended by thousands of people from around the region.

Other popular events include Somerton Corn Fest, a festival that pays homage to the area's agricultural industry; Somerton Greater Days & Food Festival, which celebrates the city's anniversary, and Petpalooza, an event for pet lovers and their animals.

San Luis

Having incorporated in 1979, San Luis is Yuma County's youngest municipality. But the community's history is longer than that.

Its beginnings date back to 1930, when the United States opened a port of entry across from San Luis Rio Colorado, Son. Over the next several decades, its population consisted mainly of farm labor families who lived within a two-block area north of the Mexican border.

In the 1950s, the population hovered at around 200 residents but then climbed in the 1960s, primarily as a result of the Bracero program that brought Mexican farmworkers and their families to the United States.

In 1961, Jose Urtuzuastegui opened the city's first gasoline station, The Flying A, on Main Street, a block north of the border line. And in 1965, Chevron became the first major business chain located in San Luis when it opened a service station.

In succeeding years, more businesses turned their eyes to San Luis in response to the prospect of doing business with shoppers from neighboring Mexico.

In 1977, a group of residents and merchants who called themselves the San Luis Committee for Progress launched a petition drive calling on the Yuma County Board of Supervisors to incorporate their community.

In 1979, the board of supervisors approved the petition, making San Luis the county's fourth incorporated community, governed by a seven-member council.

According to the most recent Census estimate, the population is over 38,000.

The area's main industry is agriculture, but large employers in the city include the city of San Luis, ACT call center, Gadsden Elementary School District, Walmart and the Arizona State Prison.

San Luis has a branch of Arizona Western College, and the city's children and teens are educated by eight schools in the Gadsden Elementary School District, San Luis High School, as well as Harvest Preparatory Academy, a charter elementary and high school.

Two hospitals have broken ground in San Luis and plan to open in 2026; The Regional Center for Border Health and Onvida Health San Luis Medical Campus.

Popular community events in San Luis include the new Asado & Brew Festival, Miss San Luis Scholarship Pageant, Fourth of July celebration and Dia del Campesino, which celebrates the contributions of the area's farmworkers.

Wellton

Founded in 1878, Wellton was originally known as “Well Town,” named for wells drilled in the area to supply water to the railroad. It was incorporated as a town almost a century later, in 1970.

Located east of Yuma on the opposite side of the Gila Mountains, Wellton’s main industry continues to be agriculture, although it draws growing numbers of winter visitors attracted to the community’s slower, easygoing lifestyle.

Today, it is home to more than 5,000 residents, according to the most recent Census Wellton CCD estimate. In the winter months, with the arrival of winter visitors, the population increases by as much as double.

Wellton’s has amenities which include a Family Services Center, the 18-hole Butterfield Golf Course, a community center, and N.D. & Katie Kline pool. Golfers who like to tee off in the desert can also play 18 holes at the Links at Coyote Wash on the south side of Interstate 8.

The town also has a branch of Yuma County’s library system, and a museum – the Wellton-Mohawk Fine Arts and Historical Association. In addition, Arizona Western College has a branch campus in Wellton to serve residents of the town and other areas of East County.

Children and teens are educated at Wellton Elementary School and Antelope Union High School in nearby Roll.

Wellton also is the site of several events that attract visitors from around Yuma County. These events include the Southwest Forgotten Iron Annual Wellton Engine/Tractor Rodeo & Tractor Pull, the Pioneer Days celebration, and a 4th of July Celebration.

Fortuna Foothills

Back in the day, the Gila Mountains foothills were just a place to rest on the way to the river.

That all changed in the 1960s when a man named Henry (Hank) Schechert came up with a vision for a development where people could live close to the desert, and bought up about 3,000 acres. Because Yumans doubted anyone would want to live “in the middle of nowhere,” it was first known as “Hank’s Folly.”

Schechert’s first subdivision was at Foothills Boulevard and 40th Street, where lots cost $1,295 and $1,495. Since then, more than 10,000 residential lots have been sold, and over 27,000 year-round residents call the Foothills home, a number that nearly doubles during the winter.

Commercial and residential development continues and the Foothills now boast “destination” shopping and dining spots, along with four golf courses, a private pool and fitness center, and the Foothills branch library.

Hikers and off-roaders explore the desert along Fortuna Wash and the vast Barry M. Goldwater Air Force Range, and stargazers delight in the darker skies. The popular Telegraph Pass hike also begins here and the very popular Howling At The Moon festival is held in the area.

An annual Foothills Parade of Christmas Lights starts at Foothills Boulevard and 46th Street on three evenings the week before Christmas, showcasing a different route each night.

Foothills Rotary remembers the legacy of Schechert – who died in 1998 at the age of 82 – with its Hank Days Parade and car show every February.

The Cocopahs

The Cocopah Tribe, also known as the River People, have lived along the lower Colorado River and delta for centuries. Described as generous and non-materialistic, they have sustained their traditional and cultural beliefs through various political environments and ever-changing landscapes.

Historical records show that the Cocopah domain once included portions of Arizona, Southern California, and Sonora, Mexico. The Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848 created the current border boundary and split the Cocopah lands between the two countries.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson signed an executive order that established the Cocopah Reservation.

In 1964, the Cocopahs founded their first constitution and formed a five-member tribal council. In the late 1970s and 1980s, the tribe began acquiring additional land, constructing homes, installing utilities, developing an infrastructure system and initiating economic development.

In 1985, the Cocopahs gained an additional 4,200 acres, including the North Reservation, through the Cocopah Land Acquisition Bill signed by President Ronald Reagan.

The Cocopah Reservation in Arizona consists of three noncontiguous bodies of land known as the North, West and East reservations, located southwest of Yuma. Today, they comprise more than 6,500 acres, much of which is leased as agricultural land to non-Indian farmers.

Currently, there are about 1,100 enrolled Cocopah Tribal members who live and work on or near the three reservations.

The tribe has numerous commercial ventures, including the Cocopah Casino located at 15318 S. Avenue B in Somerton, Cocopah Resort & Conference Center, Cocopah Museum, Cocopah RV and Golf Resort and Wild River Family Entertainment Center.

The Quechans

Members of the Quechan Tribe are descendants of the River People, the Yuma-speaking Indians who occupied lands along the lower Colorado River centuries ago. The language was the native tongue of southeastern California and southwestern Arizona.

Contact between tribal members and the area's European settlers, the Spanish conquistadors, was infrequent until 1780, when the Spanish began building a settlement at the confluence of the Colorado and Gila rivers that consisted of soldiers and Franciscan padres, whose mission included religious indoctrination of the native people.

But as the settlers strained the area's food supplies and sought to supplant traditional religious practices, the Quechans rebelled the following year, overthrowing the Spaniards. Anglos returned to the area to stay in the late 1840s as settlers arrived as part of the California Gold Rush.

The Quechan (pronounced "Kwatsáan") Reservation was established by executive order in 1884 and the tribal constitution was adopted in 1936. The name Quechan means "those who descended."

Today, the tribe consists of about 3,200 members on a reservation covering about 45,000 acres in Imperial County in California and in Yuma County. It is governed by a seven-member council.

The tribe offers Yuma-area residents and winter visitors a number of commercial ventures, among which are the Quechan Casino Resort, located just south of Interstate 8 on the road to Los Algodones, Baja Calif.; Paradise Casino, 450 Quechan Drive in Winterhaven, Calif., several RV and trailer parks, a grocery store and more.

Business & The Economy

If Yuma County were a country, its more than $10.5 billion in gross domestic product would exceed that of many countries. Yes, that's countries.

Private industry contributed nearly $8.2 billion in GDP in 2023, shared by Greater Yuma Economic Development Corp.

Government or public sector accounted for nearly $513 million in GDP, defined as the monetary value of all finished goods and services produced within a region's borders.

The local economy is often described as a three-legged stool, with agriculture, the military and tourism being the largest contributors.

According to the Yuma County Economic Development Basics report Key Regional and economic assets include:

Agriculture: Yuma produces nearly $3.4B in products annually, 90% of the U.S. supply of winter vegetables, and features the Yuma Center of Excellence for Desert Agriculture

MCAS-Yuma: Functions as the U.S. Marine Corps' premier aviation training facility and represents $550M in economic activity annually.

Yuma Proving Ground: Functions as the Army's most versatile weapons testing facility, including small weapons, tanks, helicopters, and artillery, represents $550M in economic activity.

Tourism: The winter months see the Yuma County population grow by over 75,000 as the winter visitors make their annual trek to Yuma and contribute $452M in economic activity.

Manufacturing: The region's manufacturing sector features Fortune 500 companies such as Clarios Battery and International paper and is expanding into agricultural food product production and aerospace systems.

Opportunity Zones: The region boasts 8 Opportunity Zones representing a variety of investment and development opportunities.

Broadband Expansion: Yuma County's $20M broadband expansion project will allow companies to provide internet and other services more affordably in rural parts of Yuma County, through fiber optic cabling, which is the gold standard for next-generation broadband services. The network will also enable the County's wireless tower project to support Yuma County farmer's needs for advanced agricultural equipment that rely on high-speed wireless signals.

Mexico Impact

Mexican visitors spend more than $2.5 billion on food, clothing, entertainment and other activities in Yuma County each year. That represents more than 6 percent of all taxable sales.

And that spending directly supports more than 2,000 local jobs.

Many of the visitors are day trippers who come to the area to see family, eat in the restaurants, shop and then return home.

During the winter produce season, thousands of people cross the border every day to work in Yuma's fields. Many come back to spend their paychecks here.

Tourism

Yuma's sunshine and lovely winter weather have been drawing visitors here for decades.

Some make a quick pit stop while passing through. Some are here for a few days or weeks on business or to visit friends and family. Others come and stay for months at a time to bask in Yuma's warm winters and equally warm and friendly people.

Thousands come in the winter to play at the sand dunes and even in the summer to cool off in the Colorado River and nearby lakes. Still others are attracted to such special events as Midnight at the Oasis, or other festivals and celebrations or to hunt doves. Many come and stay in a Yuma hotel while undergoing medical and dental treatment in Mexico.

Yuma County is also a good place to experience "agritourism." Hands-on farm tours allow visitors to enjoy both the vegetables and mild weather that make Yuma winters famous.

And each year, thousands of people from colder climates migrate to Yuma for the winter months to escape the freezing temperatures, snow and ice from back home. Counting all of them is a bit difficult, but estimates place the number at more than 80,000 during the peak of the winter season in January and February.

About 30,000 of them come from Canada.

They may initially come as winter visitors, arriving in their motorhomes, but many end up purchasing a home here and make the transition to winter or even full-year residents.

Whatever the reason and length of their stay, visitors to Yuma bring outside dollars to the local economy as they buy gas and food, obtain housing, visit area attractions and shop.

Winter Visitors

Winters in Yuma draw a unique migration pattern each year. Winter visitors from all points north, who flock to the Desert Southwest, lured by the fabulous weather.

Just how many winter visitors come here from October through March tends to be an elusive – and fluid – number. But best estimates place them at some 75,000 people in the peak of the season, generally considered to be February before rising temperatures here and the lure of home have them packing up again.

Considering that the city of Yuma's year-round population is over 100,000, that's a big seasonal influx of people to the community.

A few stay in hotels. Some camp on public lands in tight-knit little communities. Others rent a lot, park their fifth wheel trailer and set out the lawn chairs. Still others put down more permanent roots, purchasing a lot for a park model home or a bricks-and-mortar house.

Winter visitors come to escape the cold weather back home. But they love Yuma not only for its warm sunshine, but its friendly people, the ease with which they can get around and the many activities to occupy them. And they fall in love with the Yuma area, a place they've come to regard as a home away from home.

Retired military people find appeal in the services Yuma's military bases provide them, and in the "sound of freedom" of military jets flying overhead. Retired farmers come to enjoy the diversity of winter crops grown here. Others come because they have friends or family here. Some come just for a short visit and end up returning.

No matter the numbers, they have a huge impact on the area.

They hit the casinos, browse the swap meets, attend arts and crafts shows and fill seats at concerts. They enjoy hiking in the desert, playing golf and fishing. They visit Mexico for medical and dental treatment and stay to linger over lunch and margaritas.

It's a good life. Today's winter visitors tend to be younger than their predecessors and they're more active.

Many give back to their winter home. They volunteer at the local hospital and help fill food boxes at Yuma Community Food Bank, serve meals at Crossroads Mission, donate to the Humane Society of Yuma and lend a hand to the Salvation Army's annual Christmas drive.

Many of the younger visitors live up to their demographic group's other name – "snowbirds" – by dividing their time between multiple warm-weather havens, while the more senior seniors are more likely to buy property in Yuma and stay for most or all of the season.

However they do it, they are indeed a rich addition to the community.

Agriculture

Yuma might be in the desert southwest, but it is certainly no food desert.

Agriculture is the leading economic driver in Yuma County and Arizona, putting more than $4 billion a year into the local and state economy each year.

Several things account for Yuma's agricultural success: Plentiful sunshine, over 188,000 acres of rich soil, progressive farmers, ample labor and senior rights to irrigation water from the Colorado River. Yuma also produces 2.5 crops per acre each year.

Leading the way, as it has for years, is the production of lettuce – from iceberg to leafy green varieties.

Lettuce is by far the largest crop grown here, with its production, harvesting and processing resulting in a bustle of activity throughout the winter months.

In total, area farmers grow roughly 100,000 acres of leafy greens a year, producing around 90 percent of the nation's winter supply of the crop in recent years, and earning Yuma the title of "Winter Lettuce Capital."

A 40 acre field will yield 6 million servings of vegetables. One billion pounds of lettuces is harvested each month which equates to 107 million servings a day.

Here is an insightful video by the Yuma Fresh Vegetable Association <https://youtu.be/l7Y6IP83aPk?si=ZDopDIUIymJmp0bn>

Alongside lettuce fields, local farmers also grow broccoli, cauliflower, spinach and other vegetables during the winter. Vegetable seed to start new crops is also an important product.

At one time, iceberg lettuce – named "iceberg" because it used to be packed in ice in rail cars for transport across the country – led the field. But it's losing ground to romaine and leaf lettuce varieties considered to be tastier and more nutritious.

With increasing frequency, the lettuce is washed, chopped, mixed with shredded carrots and packaged in ready-to-eat salad bags or containers. Also increasingly popular are the spring mix salads with the whole leaves of "baby" plants such as lolla rosa, mizuna, tatsoi and arugula, among others.

This has given rise to a bustling food processing industry. The Yuma area is home to salad plants that produce bagged lettuce and salad mixes.

There are over 20 cooling plants in the Yuma area, where powerful refrigeration units quickly cool truck-sized loads of vegetables that are then loaded into caravans of more than 2,500 semi-trucks each day. Crops harvested here in the morning can be in Phoenix by afternoon and on the East Coast in three to four days.

But Yuma isn't just a salad bowl. It grows more than 175 different crops throughout the year from A to Z – alfalfa, cotton, dates, kale, lemons, melons and wheat, just to name a few.

Arizona is the second largest producer of dates in the country after California, with 3,500 acres of production. Yuma County primarily grows medjool dates, a type of tree fruit that originated in the Middle East and North Africa, but can be cultivated in Yuma's desert environment.

Yuma is a national center of agricultural production and has the highest value of agricultural production in Arizona.

In Yuma, wheat is commonly grown in rotation with vegetable and melon crops. The Desert Durum wheat grown here is considered a premium by Italian pasta makers.

Yuma growers also grow kosher wheat to be used by Orthodox Jews to bake matzo (or matzoh), the unleavened bread wafers that are eaten at Passover. Because the rules for kosher production include that the wheat not receive moisture immediately prior to harvest, Yuma's desert conditions and controlled irrigation make it a perfect spot to grow this specialty crop.

The Yuma Center of Excellence for Desert Agriculture (YCEDA) is an innovative public-private partnership that connects top scientists to the desert agricultural industry. They put science to work developing solutions to the challenges of arid-land crop production. Drones and mechanical innovation are in use in Yuma's crop production.

One of the most innovative projects in progress is the use of broadband in agriculture production. The first of three phases of broadband use in the fields was slated to be completed by December 2024; the middle mile of fiber to be laid in Yuma.

Phase two is the installation of 23 towers in local farmland and connecting fiber to them. This will allow Yuma ag areas to be the most highly advanced tech-smart farm capable in the world.

Phase three is to help farmers implement and use the smart farm technology. This will involve training in high school and college as well as converting our local Ag center to a testing and demonstration site to push this out to the fields.

Military YPG

Yuma County has a rich military history. Home to two military installations, the community both celebrates and embraces its military family.

The presence of the military in Yuma goes back to 1850, when the U.S. Army established Fort Yuma on the California side of the Colorado River. The fort overlooked the Yuma Crossing – a narrow spot where the river squeezed between rock walls – the site that later became the city of Yuma.

Today, the U.S. Army Yuma Proving Ground fulfills a vital role in maintaining the technical excellence and high quality of America's military arsenal, while Marine Corps Air Station Yuma supports 80 percent of the Corps' air-to-ground aviation training.

There are also thousands of military retirees who decided to settle in the Yuma area after serving their country. Whether it's the convenience of living near the two installations, the opportunities and security it provides them, or the economic benefits, many viewed living here as having a lot to offer, so they stayed.

The military is also the second largest contributor to the local economy after agriculture, with YPG ($575 million) and MCAS Yuma ($550 million) generating more than a billion dollars a year in combined revenue for the city and state's coffers.

Yuma Proving Ground

U.S. Army Yuma Proving Ground traces its history back to World War II with the Desert Training Center, where troops trained for combat in North Africa, and the Yuma Test Branch, a site for testing combat bridge designs.

Today, at 1,300 square miles YPG is one of the largest military installations in the world, which makes it capable of conducting developmental testing of nearly everything in the Army's ground combat arsenal.

It is also Yuma County's largest single civilian employer, with a workforce of about 2,400 employees.

A part of the Army Test and Evaluation Command, YPG's mission is to conduct tests on medium and long range artillery, aircraft armament and sensor systems, cargo and personnel airdrop systems, unmanned aircraft, armored vehicles and automotive equipment, and counter-unmanned aircraft systems. It is at the forefront of current Army modernization efforts.

YPG has had a huge and varied testing workload over its history, including the Apache helicopter, M1 Abrams tank, Bradley Fighting Vehicle, Stryker armored vehicle, the M777 lightweight 155mm howitzer, and the Joint Light Tactical Vehicle. The global positioning system (GPS) was also tested there beginning in the early 1970s.

Between test customers, training units, government and foreign dignitaries, local organizations, and school groups, YPG hosts more than 30,000 visitors every year, making it a substantial contributor to the local hospitality industry.

The installation has one of the longest overland artillery ranges (40 miles) in the nation, the most highly instrumented helicopter armament test range in the Department of Defense, over 240 miles of improved road courses for testing tracked and wheeled vehicles, and well over 1,000 miles of fiber-optic cable linking test locations. There are also six airfields, with extensive unmanned aerial system testing offered in restricted airspace over a variety of terrain conditions. Unmanned aircraft testing, as well as testing equipment used to “counter” the threat of unmanned aircraft are both growth areas.

YPG is home to the Military Freefall School, part of the John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center and School, a joint forces training organization covering all aspects of military parachuting. The training allows Special Forces troops to train for missions involving free falls from aircraft.

A vertical wind tunnel at 75 feet tall is one of the world’s largest free fall simulators, with an additional 20 feet underground. The Department of Homeland Security also operates a helium-filled aerostat balloon in YPG airspace, part of a radar “fence” guarding against planes smuggling drugs across the border.

On the non-military side, YPG testing has supported NASA throughout most of the history of the United States space program. Multiple private industry customers have also utilized YPG over the years.

Military MCAS

Marine Corps Air Station Yuma's history dates back to 1928 when Col. Benjamin F. Fly persuaded the federal government to lease 640 acres of desert from Yuma County. For the low price of $1 per year, the government leased Fly Field for 20 years with an option for an additional 20 years.

Aviation was in its infancy then and Fly Field became the center of attention in Yuma. During the summer of 1928, it was a stopover point for 25 planes in a New York to Los Angeles air race, a popular spectacle of the rapidly advancing world of aviation.

The first plane to land in Arizona touched down here in Yuma in Oct. 25, 1911, when Robert Fowler made a stop on a cross-country flight from Santa Monica to Florida.

Piloting a Wright Model B biplane (also known as a "Cole Flyer") with an engine rented from the Wright Brothers, Fowler landed in Yuma near what was then a ball field. In 2010, a new statue of Fowler was dedicated at the site (195 S. 4th Ave., in front of the Yuma Landing Restaurant).

One of the first airports in Arizona, Fly Field was used sporadically by private aircraft until 1941, when the U.S. government, through the Civil Aeronautics Administration, authorized an expenditure for permanent runways. In 1929, the famed aviatrix Amelia Earhart ran off the runway in Yuma while competing in the first Women's Air Derby.

When the United States entered World War II, engineers built an air base. By early 1943, Yuma Army Air Field began graduating classes of pilots. The base became one of the busiest flying schools in the nation, training pilots of AT-6 single-engine trainers, T-17 multi-engine trainers and B-17 Flying Fortresses.

At the end of the war, all flight activity here ceased and the area was partially reclaimed by the desert.

During the period of inactivity, it was controlled successively by the War Assets Administration, the U.S. Corps of Engineers and the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Reclamation, which used it as a headquarters for its irrigation projects.

Then, on July 7, 1951, the Air Force re-activated the base and the 4750th Air Base Squadron resumed training as part of the Western Air Defense Forces. The airfield was renamed Vincent Air Force Base in 1956 in memory of Brig. Gen. Clinton D. Vincent, a pioneer of bombing techniques who died in 1955. It was signed over to the Navy in 1959 and has been a Marine Corps facility ever since.

Today MCAS Yuma continues to be the busiest aviation facility in the Marines. The installation manages the Marine Corps largest tactical aviation training range which spans over 1.2 millions acres of usable Range Training Area (RTA) in Arizona and California, consisting of the Barry M. Goldwater Range-West (BMGR-W) and the Chocolate Mountain Aerial Gunnery Range (CMAGR). MCAS Yuma delivers a unique opportunity for units to operate a full spectrum of munitions all year round.

Each year, MCAS Yuma supports two, seven week long, Weapons and Tactics Instructor (WTI) courses. These are advanced tactical aviation training sessions designed to produce Weapons and Tactics instructors and bring thousands of U.S. Marines and Sailors from around the globe to Yuma to train.

During both courses, MCAS Yuma coordinates with the city of Yuma to conduct urban training within the city limits, specifically in the form of foreign humanitarian assistance training at selected parks and school athletic fields.

The Radar Regionalization project resulted in MCAS Yuma gaining control of airspace west of El Centro to support F-35 training operations.

In 2023, MCAS Yuma supported 22 military units and training events consisting of 270 aircraft and approximately 4,500 military personnel. This contributed over $17 million to the local community in the form of lodging, local meals and other expenditures during their average 4 week stays.

MCAS Yuma shares facilities with Yuma International Airport. MCAS maintains the airport's runways and taxiways, and provides air traffic control, security and emergency services for both "sides" of the airport. The main runway at MCAS Yuma is 13,300 feet long and contains enough concrete to pave 37 miles of two-lane highway.

MCAS Yuma hosts an annual Yuma Air Show, which features aerial & static displays and aerobatics, drawing an estimated 17,000 spectators in 2023.

The MCAS Yuma Fire Department also responds to incidents involving fires, medical calls, Hazardous Material incidents, and vehicle crashes, and provides Mutual Aid support for all Yuma County Emergency Service including Yuma Proving Grounds and Imperial County Fire/EMS.

The MCAS Range Conservation division manages the BMGR-W recreation permits and operations.

Through the Single Marines Program, Yuma-based Marines volunteer in the community and in the schools – logging over 8,000 volunteer hours in 2023. MCAS Yuma also participates in Adopt-A-School initiatives, the Marine Corps Junior Reserve Training Corps program, the Juvenile Justice Court "Successful Futures" Program, and Yuma Young Marine Chapters.

The Provost Marshal's Office Military Working Dog (MWD) section partners with U.S. Customs and Border Protection to learn new perspectives on working dog handling services.

VMFT-401 personnel, with the assistance of volunteers from MCAS Yuma, conduct the Toys-for-Tots toy drive each year, which collects monetary donations and toys for families in need in the community.

In addition, MCAS Yuma provides Color Guard Details for community events and funeral services displaying the nation's flag and Marine Corps Colors.

To protect the Marine Corps training mission and Yuma County's economic health, MCAS Yuma works closely with local, state and federal agencies and the community.

Yuma's Art Scene

Like a hearty plant flowering in our dry desert climate, art in all its genres thrives throughout the year in Yuma County.

Whether area residents or visitors want to take in a theater production or a concert, or try their hand in a painting class, they will find something on the arts scene that appeals to them.

In Yuma, the Arts and Culture Division of the city's Parks and Recreation Department showcases the talents of local artists in exhibitions held throughout the year at the Yuma Art Center, 254 S. Main St.

The Parks and Recreation Department is well known for the outdoor recreational programs it hosts, but it also offers a variety of arts classes and programs, not only at the art center but at venues ranging from art galleries and classroom to recreational centers and parks.

Those who enjoy the performing arts have their pick from a variety of concerts, plays and other live performances staged throughout the year at the Historic Yuma Theatre, located next door to the art center.

The theater offers its stage both to local productions and to touring theatrical and musical groups from around the United States and other countries. Its long, colorful history has earned the Historic Yuma Theatre exposure around the state and country in publications such as USA Today as one of the neatest old "movie houses" in the nation.

Yuma boasts several theater companies that serve residents throughout the year with onstage comedy, drama and musical performances. Additionally, residents can enjoy performances during the school year from Arizona Western College Theater and local high schools. The Yuma Community Theater is the oldest continually operating community organization in Arizona, according to state records.

Audiences also enjoy the stylistic and energized performances of stage dancers who have perfected their routines and techniques as students in dance and ballet groups that call Yuma home.

Residents have no trouble finding good live music, whether they're devotees of rock, hip hop, ska, reggae, jazz, country, orchestral or classical music or something else. Bands and choirs from Arizona Western College and area high schools work hard throughout the year to perfect the performances they stage for the public.

Each winter and spring for more than a decade, the Village Jazz Series has brought musicians from the national jazz scene to Yuma for free outdoor concerts at the Yuma Palms Regional Center.

For those who like this genre, Yuma has two fiddlers associations, the Yuma Old Time Fiddlers and Southwest Old Time Fiddlers.

Some of Yuma's biggest offering of classical music takes place each winter at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, at 1550 S. 14th Ave and Snider Auditorium at 400 S. 6th Ave. The church hosts several concerts each year, featuring accomplished vocalists and instrumentalists, the latter including pianists, cellists and organists. And the Yuma Civic Orchestra & String Ambassadors offer performances such as Romantic Classics.

The local casinos also host national-level touring musical and comedy acts.

But music lovers aren't the only ones kept happy in Yuma. Local visual arts organizations also give creative folks the chance to make new friends, learn together, enjoy classes and workshops, and host various sales and exhibitions. Those groups include the Desert Artists of Yuma, Mountain Shadow Artists, the North End Artists' Co-operative, Yuma Artisans and Crafters and Yuma Fine Arts Association. Exhibition space is also offered by the AWC Student Art Gallery.

Since 1980, the Yuma Art Symposium has brought artists from around the nation to Yuma for several days of presentations, workshops and public events.

Yuma also has two movie theater complexes: Regency Main Street Cinemas and Harkins Theatres.

Education

Yuma County boasts more than 60 public, charter, private and pre-K schools and is known for its innovation and collaboration in educating children.

The county has 10 public school districts with a student population of about 38,000 in public, private, charter and home schools. The county has eight private schools and a college preparatory high school. Yuma County also has an active home-school network, Home Educators of Yuma.

A school district can encompass pre-school through grade eight, or be kindergarten through sixth grade, or just have ninth through 12th grades, as does the Yuma Union High School District which has seven campuses.

Yuma Union is the home of the Ready Now Yuma initiative, which focuses on developing the skills of each individual student so that they may be able to succeed to their maximum potential.

Yuma County is also home to several charter schools, some with branch campuses in Somerton and San Luis, Ariz.

Sorting the ins and outs of the education system here may feel confusing to those who are from outside the region. Seven of the county school districts serve elementary grades PreK-8. Two districts serve ninth through 2th grades, and the county boasts a joint technical education district that augments the two high school districts. It is known as the Southwest Technical Education District of Yuma, or STEDY, for short.

STEDY provides tuition-free career and technical education to public high school sophomores, juniors, and seniors, helping them to get a jump-start on their future. Students can earn an industry-recognized standard certificate in many different programs and enter the work-force immediately upon graduation, or continue with post-secondary education using their college credits earned through STEDY to get ahead.

One of STEDY's partners is Arizona Western College, where students 17 and younger pay a reduced price per credit. The program started under AWC President Dr. Daniel Corr as part of its strategic plan to increase the bachelor degree attainment rate in the region. AWC has an enrollment of about 12,000.

An example of the collaborative efforts is the partnerships AWC has formed with Arizona's Big 3 universities. Northern Arizona University-Yuma, the University of Arizona-Yuma and Arizona State University (ASU Local) all now are offering programs at the AWC campus with regional tuition pricing in an attempt to bring college-level learning to where people live.

Technology in the classroom is a must for Yuma County's school districts. Students use netbooks or iPads in lieu of textbooks.

Chamber members attending training session to grow their business

Students in the high schools are also choosing to combine college and career readiness, as more students enrolled in CTE/JTED courses than ever before. More than 1,000 students were enrolled in both an Advanced Placement course and a CTE/JTED course this year and more students than ever before are taking Advanced Placement courses.

Onvida Health and Arizona Western College entered into an affiliation agreement to build future regional healthcare by creating new programs and facilities for a sustainable future of a wide range of healthcare training.

The training facility will include programs in a wide variety of allied health fields including Behavioral Health, Phlebotomy Technician, Medical Billing and Coding, Community Health Worker, Radiologic Technology, Nursing, Certified Nursing Assistant, Massage Therapy, Health Aid, and Medical Assistant. The facility will serve short-term certificate students as well as those attaining associate degrees, bachelor's degrees and beyond. The three-story, 75,000-square-foot building will also be home to medical residency training at YRMC.

Elevate Southwest has been launched as part of the STEM Workforce Advancement initiative in Yuma County. The team's mission is to make quality workforce programs accessible so that everyone has the opportunity to gain the skills and education needed for successful careers in high-demand fields without leaving Yuma County. Through this initiative, Elevate Southwest is committed to partnering with community colleges, universities, employers, and government agencies to create affordable pathways to workforce success. In addition to STEM workforce education, Elevate Southwest is also leading the effort in Entrepreneurial Empowerment, Building an Innovation Hub and bringing a Spaceport to Yuma.

Education Resources

Yuma County's students are served by a number of public, charter and parochial schools.

Arizona Western College and a branch of Northern Arizona University and University of Arizona as well as Arizona State University provide higher education options for students in the Yuma area.

Outdoor Adventure

In Yuma, there are a variety of opportunities to get outside and enjoy Mother Nature. From water fun in the Colorado River to off-roading to hiking, Yuma has much to offer anyone who does not mind getting a bit sandy or wet.

The Imperial Sand Dunes National Recreation Area draws thousands of visitors and year-round residents alike to its off-road and camping opportunities. The Bureau of Land Management requires permits for camping and use of the dunes. Permits can be purchased at the Cahuilla and Buttercup Ranger Stations or you can purchase an Imperial Sand Dunes Permit from several local travel centers, gas stations and off-road shops.

The Imperial Sand Dunes are stars in their own right, having been the site for several movies, fashion shoots and commercials. You may have seen them in “Star Wars: Return of the Jedi,” “Spaceballs” and “The Scorpion King.”

The Colorado River offers fun and excitement for people of all ages and experience levels. One can hang out along the shores for an afternoon of relaxation or get a bit more adventurous with boating, kayaking or water skiing.

The Colorado River above Imperial Dam offers several recreation areas:

Xanyō Xamshré – A mile upstream from Imperial Dam, is a premier developed recreation site. The lake is a popular day use and camping area, with holiday weekends attracting large crowds.

Senator Wash Dam & Reservoir – Senator Wash Dam and Reservoir is located about 18 miles northeast of Yuma, on the California side of the Colorado River two miles upstream from Imperial Dam and at the river-end of Senator Wash. This is a popular day use area.

Martinez Lake Recreation Area – There are over 90 miles of unrestricted river access available for boating, skiing, fishing and playing on the Colorado River upstream from Imperial Dam to Blythe. To access the boat launches to get onto the river, head north on Highway 95 past the ‘big guns’ at YPG, turn left on Martinez Lake Road. Turn left to Fisher’s Landing and right to Lake Martinez Resort.

The river below the Imperial Dam is enjoyed by river-goers who like to play along the shoreline or take advantage of the quiet beauty and steady current. Bring your inner tube, kayaks, canoes and fishing poles along with your ice chest and sunscreen to enjoy the warm weather and cool water.

Popular recreation spots that have river access include:

Colorado/Gila River Confluence – Unimproved shoreline area where the Colorado and Gila Rivers meet. Highway 95 to Avenue 4 ½ E, West on Levee Road.

Gateway Park – Parking, playground, beaches, grills. Giss Parkway to Gila Street

West Wetlands Park/Centennial Beach and Playa Linda – Parking, boat ramp, restrooms, park – 4th Ave. to 1st St., North on 12th Ave.

HIKING

For those who like to exercise the leg muscles, the Yuma area offers numerous opportunities for hiking and walking.

Many parks in Yuma include concrete walking tracks in their layouts, and the city of Somerton has developed a system of andadores, or walking tracks, that will enable people to walk or bike from one end of the city to the other.

Trails within Yuma include the 5-mile-long Colorado River Trail, which follows the river bank from the West Wetlands Park at 22nd Avenue and Water Street to East Wetlands Park.

Those who like to get into nature have many options available to them. They include the following:

Little Pichacho Wilderness Area, located on the California side of the Colorado River about 25 miles from Yuma. To get there, travel on Highway 95 north from Yuma, turn left at the Big Guns at the entrance to Yuma Proving Ground and continue to Senator Wash Road. Turn right at the Senator Wash Road and enter the South Mesa Imperial Dam Long Term Visitor Area. Follow the graded road through the camp site to Ferguson Lake Road and turn right. Drive for about 10 miles on Ferguson Lake Road.

Muggins Mountains Wilderness, located east of Yuma. Travel on Interstate 8 to the Dome Valley exit, travel through Liguarta to the Dome Valley Road and turn north. Follow the Dome Valley Road to Avenue 20E, turn north on Avenue 20E and continue to County 7th Street, turning north on County 7th. Continue past the old Dome Valley Transfer Station along a primitive road to the Muggins Wash Park.

Fortuna Mile Interpretive Trail, a two-mile path located in the foothills of the Gila Mountains east of Yuma. The area is located on the Barry M. Goldwater Range and a permit is required to get on the range. Call the permit office at 928-269-7150.

Painted Desert Trail, a located in the the Imperial National Wildlife Refuge. To get there, follow Highway 95 north from Yuma to the Martinez Lake Road. Follow the Martinez Lake Road about 10 miles, turning right on Red Cloud Mine Road. Follow the signs to the visitors area.

Palm Canyon Trail, which takes hikers to Arizona's only stand of native palm trees, located in the Kofa Mountains National Wildlife Refuge. To get there, follow Highway 95 north from Yuma about about 65 miles and turn at the Palm Canyon sign.

Telegraph Pass trail, which leads hikers up to the top of the mountain on the north side of Interstate 8. To get there, turn off I-8 at the Foothills Boulevard exit and follow the North Frontage Road to the parking area for hikers.

Jester's Trail, which ascends to about 1,000 feet to the top of Jester's Peak or Flag Mountain. To get there, park at Avenue 15E and Las Barrancas and walk about 2.5 miles up the dirt road to the trail head.

Pilot Knob, located about eight miles west of Yuma in California. Pilot Knob offers several hikes. To get there, take Interstate 8 west from Yuma, exiting at Sidewinder Road. Follow Sidewinder Road to the mountain.

OFF ROADING

Off-roading in Yuma, AZ, is a fantastic way to enjoy the fresh air and create unforgettable memories with your family. Whether you're exploring the trails in a Jeep, zipping across the terrain in a UTV, or tackling rugged paths on a mountain bike, Yuma offers a variety of landscapes for every adventurer. The Picacho State Recreation Area is a favorite spot, known for its breathtaking views of the Colorado River and challenging trails that wind through desert canyons. For those looking for closer options, the Fortuna Foothills and Wellton are perfect for a day of off-road fun with loved ones.

For a unique off-roading experience, consider getting a permit to explore the Barry M. Goldwater Range. This vast area is home to some incredible sites, including old military landmarks, fascinating desert flora and fauna, and miles of rugged trails. It's an adventure that combines adrenaline-pumping rides with opportunities to connect with the area's rich natural and historical heritage.

Another option to explore is a visit to Fortuna Mine, a ghost town and abandoned gold mine located in the Gila Mountains near Yuma, Arizona. This historic site is one of the final stops along the renowned El Camino del Diablo trail. Since the area falls within the Barry Goldwater Air Force Range, visitors must obtain a free permit to access the ruins. To reach Fortuna Mine, you can either follow the Fortuna Mine trail from Yuma or traverse the entirety of El Camino del Diablo.

Outdoor Adventure

Yuma is a part of the Arizona Peace Trail created to connect the north and south portions of western Arizona with an off-road trail system. The 675-mile loop trail links Mojave County, La Paz County, and Yuma and circumnavigating the trail takes about six days at a reasonable pace, with over 100 miles to travel on some days, sometimes on difficult terrain.

The trail has loops and segments of varying length and degrees of difficulty for multiple types of OHV's, including: 4x4's, side-by-side utility vehicles, all-terrain vehicles and motorcycles.

The trail is open to motorized and non-motorized users. Trail identification signs are installed along the entire trail. Expect to see bighorn sheep, coyote, raptors, owls, deer, desert tortoise, and other wildlife.

Whether you're a seasoned off-roader or a family looking for an exciting day outdoors, Yuma's diverse terrain offers something for everyone. Don't forget to pack plenty of water, safety gear, and a sense of adventure!

FISHING HOLES

It doesn't matter if you like to take the helm of a bass boat equipped with a powerful outboard engine and all the latest fish-catching accessories, or if you're happy lounging in a chair at water's edge, fishing rod in hand.

If you like fishing – or if you think you'd like to take up the sport – you have plenty of places around the Yuma area to choose from.

There are lakes and the Colorado River, as well as ponds within the Yuma and Somerton city limits. Common to all these fishing holes are the largemouth bass, catfish and panfish, while the urban ponds are stocked with rainbow trout in the winter months.

Rules & Regulations

An Arizona fishing license is required for adults to fish at all lakes, ponds and the Colorado River.
